

ABSTRACT

An all terrain vehicle including a front bulkhead attached to a forward area of the vehicle and a canopy frame connected to a forward region of the vehicle, forward of a driver and extending upward from the vehicle. A retractable shield may be connected to the front bulkhead, the shield being moveable from a collapsed position, wherein the shield is substantially horizontal, and a retracted position. Optional features of the present invention increase its utility and function including covers for camouflage, weather, mine sweeping, and a sleeping unit.